PNM makes donation to food banks across New Mexico during the holidays

$150,000 donation helps New Mexican families in need, energy company encourages other businesses to donate

(Albuquerque, N.M.) – Today, PNM made donations totaling $150,000 to food banks across the state for New Mexican families in need. Food pantries that received this funding include Albuquerque, Belen, Farmington, Rio Rancho, Ruidoso, Santa Fe, Silver City, and tribal communities statewide including the 19 Pueblos, the Navajo Nation, Jicarilla Apache Nation and the Mescalero Apache Tribe. The generous donation was made by PNM shareholders, no customer funds were used for this effort.

“Food banks provide a valuable and lifesaving service to many New Mexicans who are living in food-insecure households,” said Don Tarry, PNM Resources President and Chief Operating Officer. “PNM saw the need to step up and help people in our state who need it most and we encourage other businesses and individuals, who are able, to do the same.”

“We at Roadrunner Food Bank are deeply grateful to PNM for its generous investment to assist food banks, pantries and congregant feeding sites to fight food insecurity across New Mexico,” said Mag Strittmatter, Roadrunner Food Bank President and CEO.

If you live in a food secure household, you may never know the feeling of hunger or the stress and worry of being able to provide a healthy meal for young children or seniors struggling to make ends meet. Food is a basic human need, yet there are millions of Americans who are hungry and struggle with food insecurity every day.

While PNM’s $150,000 statewide donation makes a positive impact to hungry New Mexicans, it does not erase the need for food banks. If you are a business or individual in a position to donate, please reach out to your local food bank. If you and your family are skipping meals, please know there is help and reach out to your local food pantry to receive free food.
